WAAS New Paradigm for Human Development

The human being is the source of unlimited creative potential and the present social paradigm falls far short of fully developing the potential of its members. Solutions are available because unutilized human potential exists in abundance waiting to be developed and released.

For instance, Tesla was a remarkable man not only for his inventions, but also for his dedication and application. It is amazing to read of his "inner life" in a way rarely shared.

According to WAAS new paradigm for human development, as the creation of the new vision and new story for our shared future, an inspired cultural revival can be materialized in many different ways which, however, must share a common, solid, cultural background built on values, dedication and application.
